Dear Liz,

It's hard to believe that the little Shangri-la campers from rowdy Bunk A have grown up so fast and are already graduating high school! We've both changed so much over the past few years, and the change was definitely for the better. I remember a time when our relationship was kind of shaky (Florida?) but I can truthfully say that I'm happy we overcame our differences, and I'm sorry for the times we weren't friendly. Liz you are one of the sweetest people I know, always ready to lend a hand, or an ear (or an arm, or a nose!), always willing to help out a friend. I'm happy this year has brought us closer, because I've found that you are a beautiful person, someone I'm happy to call my friend. Best of luck at Syracuse next year, and best of everything always.

Love you,
Alice

Love always,
Ronda

What can I say, we've been friends for as long as I can remember. We had good times together. I will always remember the times when we went out for looking for boys, at Dairy Queen, and Lori! went out the good old days. Now we have to think about our future. It's so scary. Liz, you're a great, friendly person. I am glad that I have you as a friend. I know you will always be around when I need you, and good-luck in all you do, although you don't need it. Your winning personality will definitely get you far. I will see you! Have a great trip this summer. Thanks for everything!

Though our youth seems it will last forever
We know we don't live in a land of never-never.
Peter Pan, a child in his mind,
Thought happiness was something an adult could never find.
But he never looked into the sky very far
Or put his wishes in the trust of a star
Or searched his soul in the warmth of night
But merely floated through childhood, like a tail on a kite.
He never saw into the depth of a looking glass.
Simply, he let his life quickly pass.
But we don't live in the pages of a book.
Our lives are real, take a look.
The days fly by so fast;
The present quickly becomes the past.
The dreams of tomorrow are soon the goals of today
And life's perplexities are things by which we must Live and obey.

The 1976 Tiger Yearbook is dedicated to Mr. Martin Levine, yearbook advisor and advisor to the Bicentennial Class of 1976.

As yearbook advisor, he stretched his limits far beyond that expected of him. His comprehensive expertise guided us through many difficult days. The pressures and deadlines we faced were often alleviated by Mr. Levine's soft, warm humor at the right moment.

Deeply involved in all aspects of class activities, he escorted large groups of students to Puerto Rico, on his vacation time, which is evidence of his continuing concern and love for students of Spring Valley Senior High School. Because of his influence and guidance, class plans such as our prom, car washes, talent show, and others have come to fruition. This involvement is carried over to his own community, Monroe, where he serves on the local Board of Education.

Inside and out of the classroom, most students feel very comfortable in his presence and thoroughly enjoy his classes. He is an emotional teacher who gets his students involved. His patience is timeless, which adds to mutual trust between himself and the individual.

Two words may sum it up: LOVE and RESPECT. Mr. Levine's love for others is balanced by the respect in which he is held by students and faculty alike.

HEA CARBER
HAROLD VANA

June 1976

To the Class of 1976

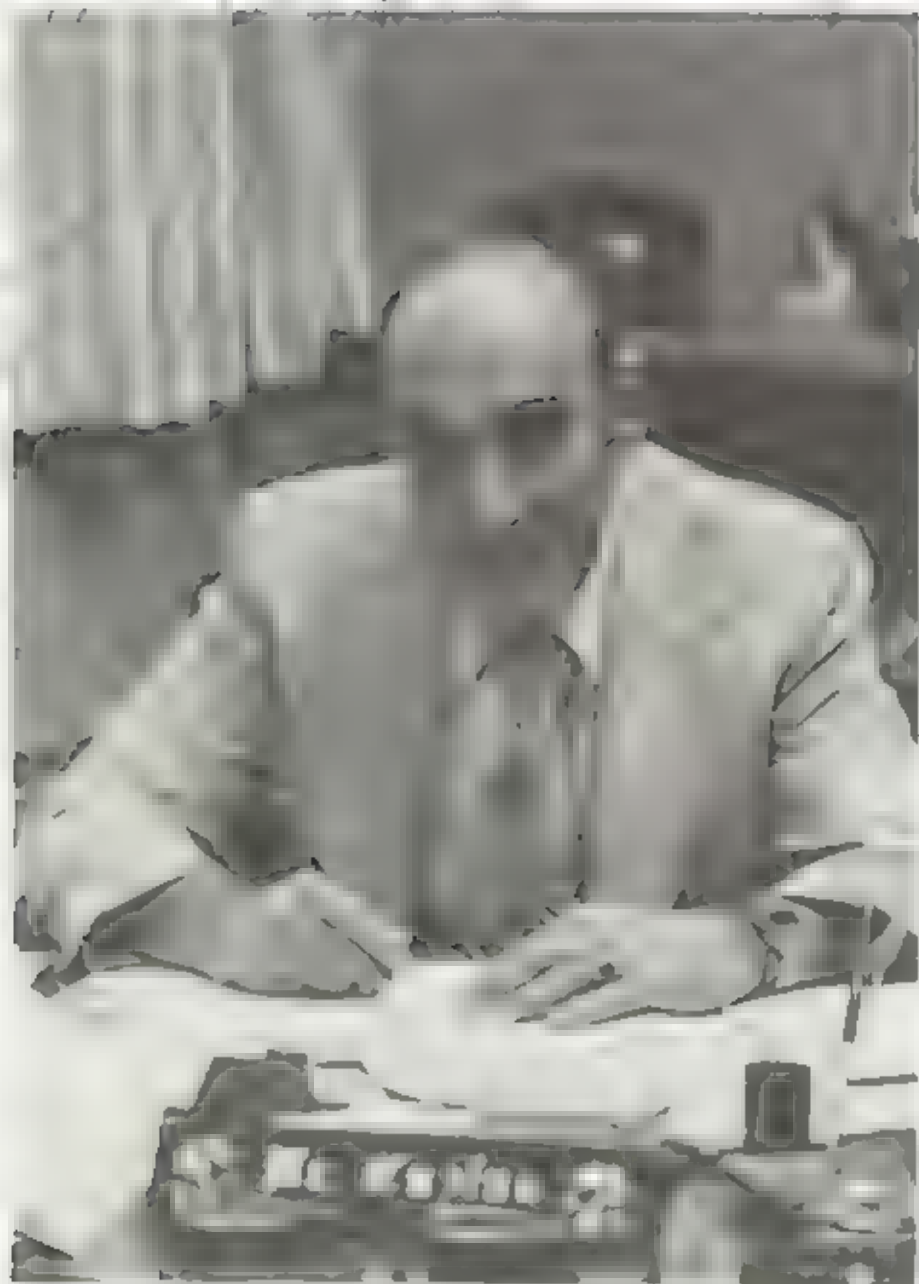

The revolutionary spirit of '76' was dedicated to the ideal that free people could meet the responsibilities of self-government through a representative democracy. In 1776 few people believed this was possible and the predicted that the American experiment would quickly fail. Now, in 1976, people universally voice their approval of it as concept even though many see yet trial and tribulation. The American experiment has succeeded in spite of this. This is the way it should be since the basic idea of the 18th century and the American experiment was 'the perfectability of man', the concept that man can continually improve himself and his society. This principle is still the living force of our political, economic, social, cultural, and intellectual life.

The key to perfectability is education, the principle that each individual in a democratic society has the right and responsibility to develop skills and abilities to their fullest extent. Decisions are to be based upon reason and reason based upon knowledge. In this way the whole is the sum of its parts and our society becomes the composite of each of the individuals who are part of it.

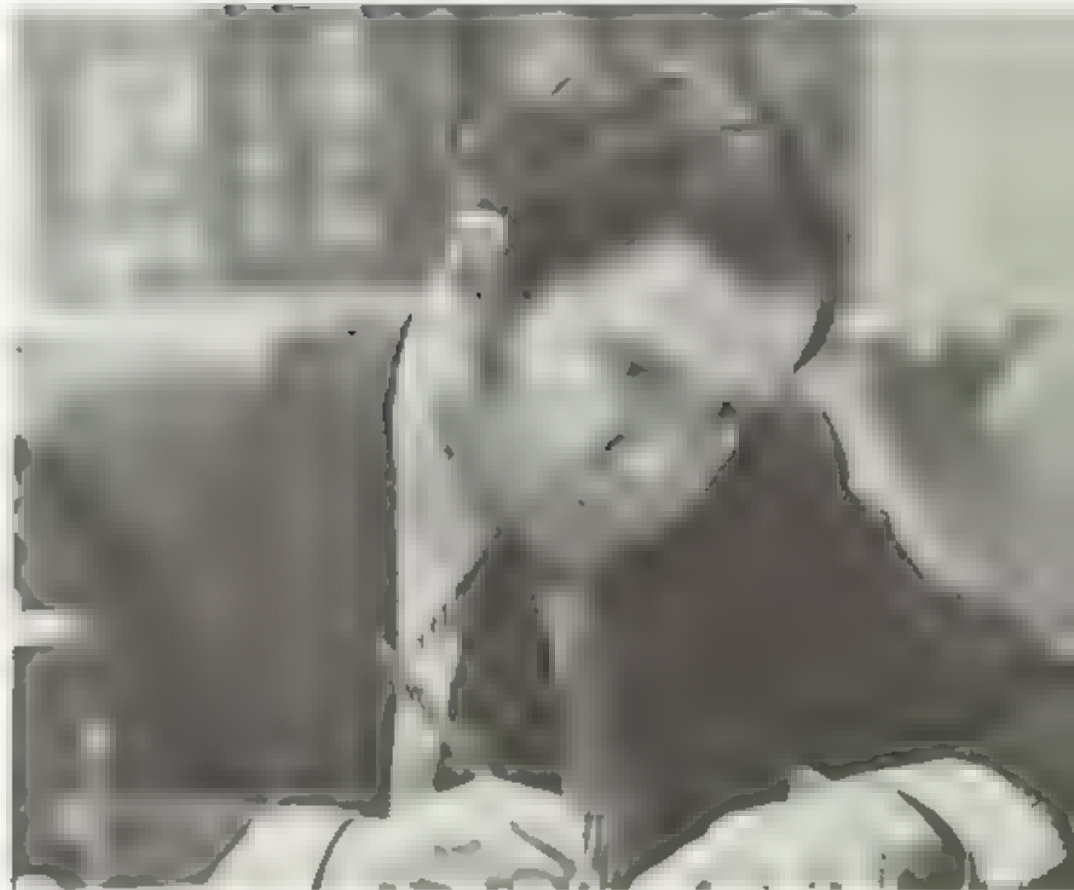

You as members of the Class of 1976, have the same challenge, responsibility and goal as our ancestors in 1776. The challenge is to make sure that our democratic way of life is not sacrificed because of expediency, the responsibility is to develop your own skills and abilities to their fullest extent so that, both individually and as a whole, we achieve the goal that our American society will continue to improve always striving to reach perfection.

I hope, as graduates from Spring Valley Senior High School, we have helped you acquire the basic skills and equipment to meet the challenges and responsibilities ahead. In my opinion these challenges are larger and more difficult to meet and overcome than those of 1776. But then again, you have the benefit of 200 years of experience. I am convinced you will use all your talents wisely and will assist in making our third one hundred years even greater than the first two. Congratulations and best wishes for a happy, healthy and productive future.

Following the September proposition defeat, concerned students and a group of local taxpayers known as the Committee to Save Sports, collected 5,000 signatures on petitions calling for another vote on the issue of athletics.

These events set the stage for the October 2 vote on a $245,000 sports proposition and began a chain reaction of meetings and demonstrations which were to disrupt normal district routine for the next 10 days.

The 1975-1976 school year was a positive year for Spring Valley sports. Both the soccer team and the football team had abbreviated, non-league seasons. The football team hasn't won in two years. They have the potential for a good team, but don't even know if they are going to play. The soccer team wins, but for what? Both teams were thankful, thankful they even played. Sports was put down three times but still existed at Spring Valley. It existed because of the determination of the coaches and the students. Everybody is thankful, especially to the coaches, who coached without pay. The only athletic team that didn't have a coach was the girls basketball team. Principal Burton Caplan took the responsibility and gave all the time and effort he could. Even in a year of hardship it was still a VICTORY for Spring Valley sports.

We thank the coaches.....

Little Red Schoolhouse Bicentennial Dedication

1776

THE FIRST 200 YEARS

A knowledge of American history is an invitation to experience the accomplishment, drama, tragedy and hope of an infant nation struggling to grow up. Sturdy, determined pioneers hacked away at the edges of a raw continent and, with blunders and achievements alike, modeled a country with a spirited nature and a united commitment to individual liberty for every one of its citizens. Americans, great and not so great, have given us a heritage to carry on and improve upon. Farmers and soldiers, industrialists and merchants, dreamers and leaders, are all there in two centuries of progress.

But the maturing isn't finished. You'll find the boundaries of growth as endless today as when our forefathers first envisioned them. You can seek out your own destiny with the wisdom and judgement which comes with re-creation of the past. Your knowledge, dreams and industry will carry on through many more centuries of living history.

CHAPTERS OF AMERICAN HISTORY

The Stamp Act of 1765 was an attempt by England to tax items that were wholly American. The colonists reacted in seething resentment which erupted into angry protestations. The first blood of the American Revolution was spilled during one such incident at Boston in 1770. Several Americans lost their lives over a snowball thrown at a British sentry.

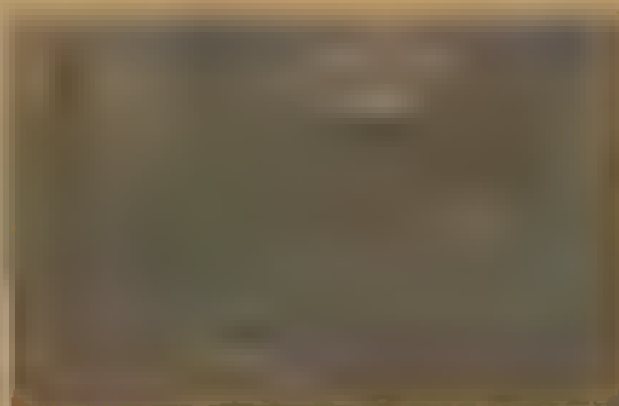

In the fight to achieve commerce equality, the United States found itself in a naval war over shipping lanes. Fort Mifflin was heroically held during a British naval bombardment, and the stars and stripes still flew after a night of hard fighting. The next morning Francis Scott Key penned the immortal words of what would become the national anthem.

Settlers had to have permanent access to the new lands, so canals and bridges were built to carry stages and wagon trains loaded with machinery destined for settlements in the West. The pioneers foresaw great wealth in the cheap acreage that was available.

Frontiersmen cleared the wilderness, built settlements and drove back the Indians. The Pony Express and the telegraph became primary means of communication.

Agriculture was the wealth of the country. American inventions of the time were often related to working the soil. The McCormick Reaper, mowing machines, textile looms and the cotton gin were instrumental in the settling of new frontiers.

In 1848 James Marshall found gold in the race at a sawmill he was building for John Sutter at Coloma, California. The lust to get rich quick was the force behind this biggest and gaudiest gold rush ever.

While gold rush fever gripped the country, states were increasingly more divided on the slavery issue. Civil war broke out in the East. This Brothers War was bitterly fought and though the scars remain even today, slavery was abolished.

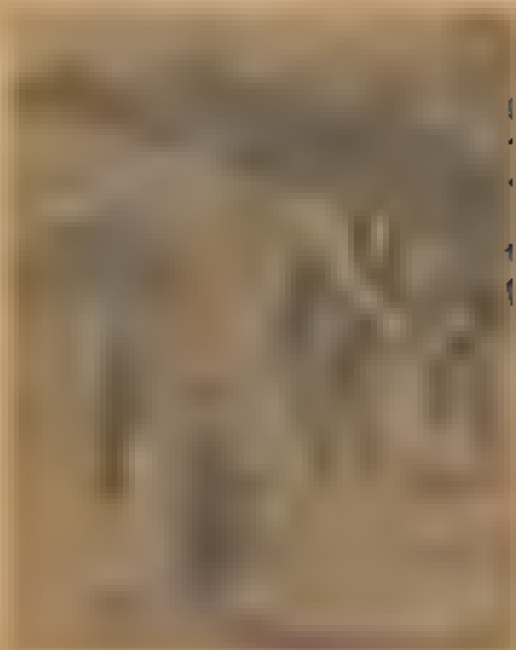

Cities grew at an alarming pace, often without regard to the limits of safety. The great Chicago fire of 1871 burned the bustling cattle market empire beyond recognition. But the pioneer spirit was not broken. Chicagoans began rebuilding and preparations were underway to celebrate the 100th birthday of the country.

The 'Iron Horse,' carrying homesteaders greatly helped settlement of the new country. The first transcontinental railroad connected the country at Promontory Summit, Utah, on May 10, 1869.

Transportation was setting the pattern for the American way of life. The country became a mobile society with electric trolleys, automobiles, farm machinery, and highways in the east. Along with the accessibility of travel came a new era of nationhood.

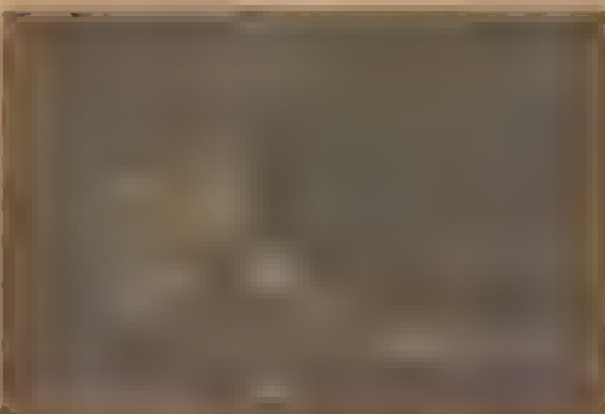

A World War called upon the nation's young men to unite and fight. After the war in 1918, the nation pulled itself together and industry started once again. A carefree America buried war memories in the new moving pictures, telephones, light bulbs, electric generators, stock market ticker tape machines, phonographs and a wealth of inventions. Idle minds of its young inventors came the national sport and prohibition was law.

Black Thursday, October 24, 1929, saw the American stock market crash to the lowest level in history. Panic set in as the unemployment level skyrocketed. The country was in its worst economic crisis. Slowly but surely the wounds of the crash, the dust bowl, and poverty healed.

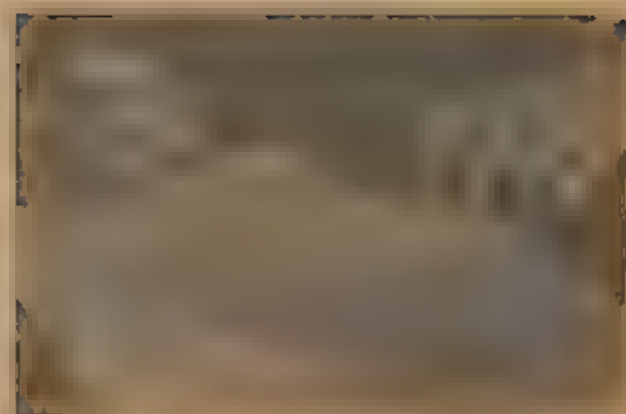

The steel industry geared up for the revision while rumors were widespread in 1941. Roosevelt's administration of another new thing was. The nation's leaders scuttled anti-semitism in 1941. Franklin.

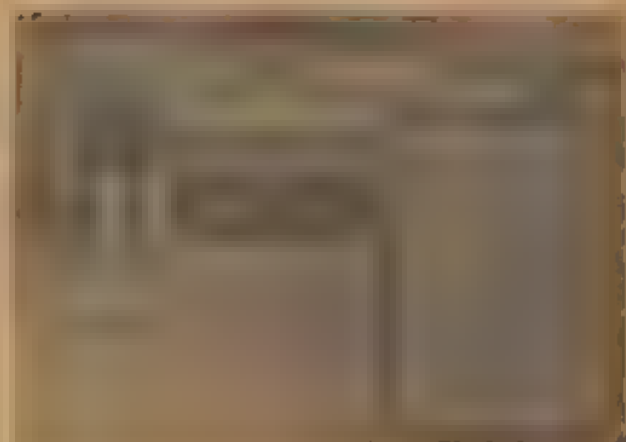

Industrial production reached a peak during the war years. Then, return from four years of battle, the veterans forged ahead with an ever better life for everyone. Several moderate recessions in the 50's and 60's tempered the ambitious citizens of past decades.

Huge strides were being taken in the scientific field. Television became a part of every family's life. National events were household topics - while they happened - thanks to the new medium. Individuals and groups were seen on the tube as they advocated new social reforms, for justice, or special causes of their own. TV gave individuals and political systems power greater than ever before. Audio visual communication had made its impact.

Nearly 100 years of struggling for civil liberties were realized when President Lyndon B. Johnson signed the Civil Rights Act of 1964 into law. The Act outlawed segregation in any form.

The seventies shed light on a new trouble for the nation as it approached its 200th birth day. The world's energy sources and natural resources were being used up faster than they could be replenished. Americans once again waded into a new frontier. The "energy crisis" and "ecology" were prominent words in the language. Ways to save nature from the neglect of mankind and ways of preserving precious fuel without damaging that balance of nature were the objectives of Americans across the globe.

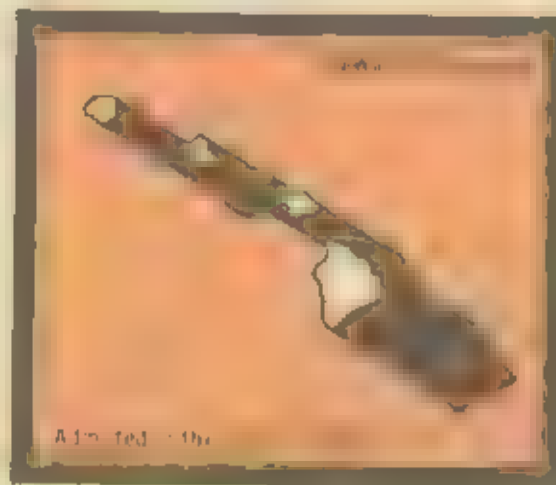

Earth's crises spurred Americans into further pioneering. This time - outer space. American astronauts were the first on the surface of the moon and the U.S. was first to launch a sky lab for more scientific study.

America is still learning and growing after a mere 200 year infancy. The original determination of our forefathers was told again in the words of Neil Armstrong as he made the first step on the moon - "a small step for man, but a giant step for mankind."

THE CHANGING NATION

Ownership of land had been just a dream to most of the colonists from feudal England. With the great expanse of cheap land opening up in the West, the dream became reality.

The Louisiana Purchase of 1803 opened the first sizable frontier in the Midwest, but the nation was not ready for it yet. It took a growing market in the East, where land was getting high-priced and scarce, and development of good transportation, to really start the frontier movement.

The Gold Rush caused hordes of settlers to take various routes to the Pacific Coast and its yellow riches. The railroads brought farmers and ranchers, along with the miners, who decided to stop all along the routes and build their homes. Railroads were instrumental in the quick civilization of the West, bringing people in numbers so large that the resentful Indians were finally pushed back into unwanted and infertile areas.

America became a haven for immigrants from every nation as freedom beckoned them to the farming cities of the East, the plains, and the rich west coast farmlands.

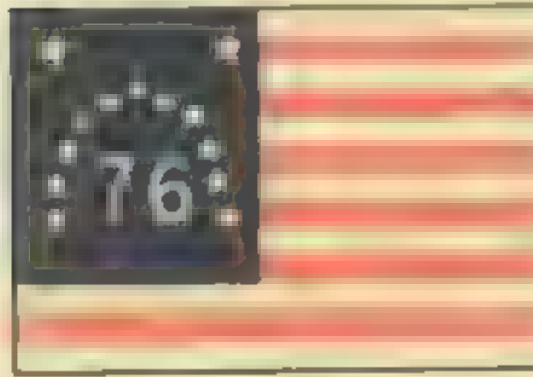

Sick of the Civil War and with their own lands divided up and lost, many Southerners set out to "begin again" in the virgin territories. "Westering" soon became the national tradition as North and South moved together toward a new life. Americanism was advanced socially, by the hard-working, bare fisted types who settled the frontiers.

NECESSITY IS THE MOTHER OF

Without realizing it, England instilled in the colonists the individual purpose and ingenuity that necessity breeds. With trade goods cut to a minimum, determined young leaders of the time set out to find ways of surviving without support from the Mother Country.

Agricultural methods and machines and labor saving devices were designed by our forefathers. As frontiers opened, Yankee genius had to conquer natural barriers in the wild new country, so suspension bridges were invented and methods of transportation were perfected for the purpose of opening the untamed areas. Later they sought to section off the land with the revolutionary and controversial invention - barbed wire.

Cooper's 1-horsepower Tom Thumb train in 1830 and later, automobiles like the first Model T, and the 4-horsepower airplane, became American modes of travel from city to city and coast to coast.

Americans knew that the fertile lands of this nation would produce unequalled harvests if machines were designed to take over for man. They knew also that trade routes were difficult to travel and manufacturing would have to be done close to home. The cotton gin, textile looms, drill presses and a reaper which could cut six times as much grain as a hand scythe were some of the tools invented.

Protection for themselves and for their young country prodded inventors like Eli Whitney to perfect firearms and others to work on plans for the first submarine. Young inventors like Alexander Graham Bell and Thomas Edison (called the nation's most valuable citizen) visualized machines that would light the country and open up communication with those in the far corners of the nation. The telephone, telegraph, phonograph and the first light bulb were discovered in the late 1800's and early twentieth century. This American way of doing for oneself inspired many to become inventors in their own right. Some sought to save labor and mass produce for profit while others envisioned not only riches but excitement and adventure as they discovered ways to defy nature.

Throughout the past 200 years the American mind has been unleashed to take whatever paths necessary to fulfill the needs. In the last half-century, the pace of discovery has been overwhelming and inventions for the taming of the universe lie in the grasp of America while the habit of "finding a way" is ingrained in its people. The seeds of industrial America were sown by these inventors resulting in today's mechanized society.

THEY MADE THEIR MARK

Men and women who helped shape America's history

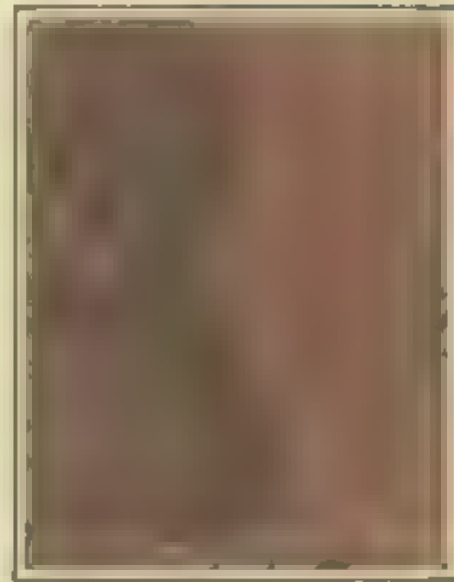

THOMAS PAINE, a bankrupt Quaker distiller who wrote the pamphlet Common Sense reflected longings and aspirations that have resounded part of American culture to this day.

DANIEL WEBSTER, whose law as a career and went on to become one of the nation's greatest orators, a policy which studied him.

DOROTHEA DIX worked her entire adult life for reform of the insane. Her efforts in New Jersey was a direct result of her efforts.

The creator of the Chintheese alphabet, SEQUOYAH, was a white man who found a way to write the Cherokee language. The redwood from the Pacific coast bear his name.

Chief Justice JOHN MARSHALL set an example of fundamental principles of American constitutional law. He is noted for his graceful declaration of a Congressional act as unconstitutional. He served through five administrations from 1801 to 1835.

Born a slave in Maryland, FREDERICK DOUGLASS taught himself to read and write himself and at 21 he went to freedom. He was an ardent abolitionist campaigning successfully for Negro suffrage and civil rights.

"The New Colossus" is the poem that inspired the Statue of Liberty. She organized relief for Jews and helped fugitives from the Czar's ghettos to establish homes in America.

AMELIA JENKS BLOOMER, best known for a mode of dress she adopted during her campaign for equal rights for women. Though ridiculed until she gave up the costume, the term "bloomer" came to symbolize woman's bid for individual freedom.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, the greatest of American presidents, rose to the highest office of the nation. He was successful in analyzing complex issues and leading the nation through the Civil War. He was devoted to the preservation of the Union.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE, a New York City abolitionist, wrote an effort to make the white man realize the inhumanity of slavery. Her book Uncle Tom's Cabin was one of the most popular and controversial plays of the American stage. The Civil War was inspired by this work.

HORACE GREELEY, a New York City abolitionist, was a rallying cry of the pioneers of America. He was founder and editor of the New York Tribune. He was best known for his philosophy of social reform and his successful bid for the Presidency in 1872.

JOSEPH PULITZER, a New York City abolitionist, was a rallying cry of the pioneers of America. His New York World newspaper was the symbol of yellow journalism with its sensationalism aimed at the common man.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER was a leading industrialist. He believed that it was the duty of a rich man to distribute his wealth during his lifetime. To that end, he established 28,000 libraries and many cultural halls throughout America.

HENRY FORD was born in Dearborn, Michigan, in 1863. He completed his first motor vehicle, The Ford Motor Company manufactured the first "Model T" in 1908.

J. EDGAR HOOVER was the first director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He was set out to clean up the country. His career spanned over 40 years.

DAVID W. GRIFFITH became known as the "father of the film art" and king of directors for his part in this revolution. His camera techniques were the pioneering steps of the industry.

FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT was a president of the United States. He was the only president to serve four terms. He was a strong advocate of the use of federal aid.

ROBERT FROST was a poet. His poetry was clear, understated, well-metered, and told the stories of rural America. He was a five-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize and has been called the "poet of the American scene."

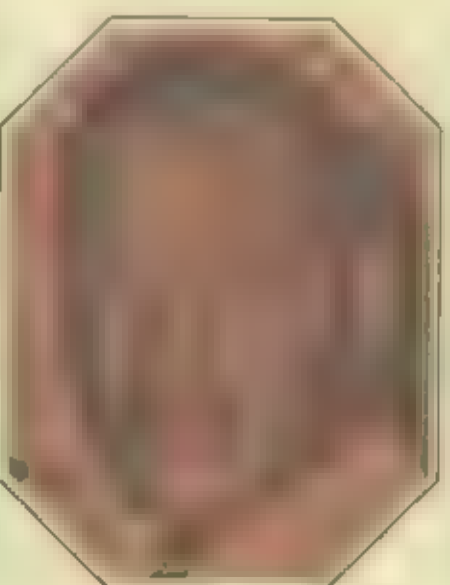

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT was the first woman to serve as a member of the United Nations Security Council. She was a strong advocate of human rights and was a vocal supporter of the United Nations.

THURGOOD MARSHALL was the first Negro to serve as a justice of the Supreme Court. He was a strong advocate of civil rights and was a vocal supporter of the United Nations.

SAVADOR DALI was a Spanish painter. He was a leading figure in the Surrealist movement. He was a strong advocate of the use of federal aid.

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. was a leader of the American Civil Rights Movement. He was a strong advocate of non-violence and was a vocal supporter of the United Nations.

YURI GAGARIN was the first man to travel in space. He was a strong advocate of the use of federal aid.

GERALD R. FORD was the 38th President of the United States. He was a strong advocate of the use of federal aid.

Imagine buying that acre of land you have spotted for $1.25! Or even at the higher price of $10. Those are the prices offered to our founding fathers to encourage settlement of the wilderness areas of this nation.

A stage wasn't the most comfortable way to go, but you could get from city to city for as little as $3 — at the amazing pace of six miles per hour.

Compare today's wages with a 12-hour day in the early 1800's. A man earned 50¢ a day. Of course his dollar bought a little more than today's. Butter in 1820 weighed about 5¢ lb. in the Midwest, eggs 3¢ doz., corn or bu., wheat, 25¢ bu., and a cow could be bought for $5.

With travel becoming the American tradition, you could choose train, wagon, stagecoach or the water. A canal ride with food and board included averaged 3 or 4¢ per mile. And when you reached your destination, you could sit down to a 5¢ or even 10¢ meal for 25¢ (ladies 20¢, in consideration of appetite).

Farmers in the early 1800's could own the famous McCormick Reaper for a mere $100. But the Civil War increased prices — the machine became the first item farmers could buy on time payments for the sum of $1,500.

A good suit of clothes then might cost $1.95 and ladies' waists (blouses) weighed in for 49¢ to $3.50 with a whole dress pattern priced at 15¢.

Cookstoves, "quality-satisfaction guaranteed," could cost you $29.25 at $4 per month and a dandy heating stove could set you back as much as $5.73 and up. The first electric refrigerator cost $900 — which might be enough to make you faint on your 1907 fainting couch that had cost a mere $7.85.

Your new baby travelled in the height of fashion in a wicker sleeping coach (stroller) for the sum of $12.04. If you had $1,500 in 1903 you could show off in one of the first automobiles.

Ah, those were the days. Some of the current prices are reminiscent of those days, but at frontier prices, which were a whole different story. Hardy pioneers had to pay $2 a pound for sugar, too. And the same for a pound of coffee or pepper. Those items were only 15¢ per pound back in civilized St. Louis. Flour was marked up 100 times for sale to the frontiersmen and during the famous Gold Rush, that precious commodity went for $400 a barrel.

Life? and worth living? Yes, with each part of us—Hurt of us, help of us, hope of us, heart of us, Life is worth living. Ah, with the whole of us, will of us, brain of us, senses and soul of us. Is life worth living? Aye, with the best of us, heights of us, depths of us—Life is the test of Us!

Debra Gurkin You have to keep peace with yourself before you can be at peace with the world.

Eric Hausmann Art remains the one way possible of speaking truth. R. Browning Spring is a new beginning, It is a gentle farewell to yesterday and birth of new hope.

Love is a happy feeling that stays inside your heart for the rest of your life.

Through living we learn—through learning we live with a surefooted soul able to bar the stiffest leather—still hurting though it may,
we might try and soften it now with a different course of action, for now, familiar with the initial pain.

A cool breeze blows, A sea-gull soars;
both to the rhythm of the ocean.

A naked farmhouse time has torn to bits of wood and stone, stood upon the barren field so quiet and alone—Yet from an ancient oak tree hung an ancient tire swing, and through the breeze rang echos of a song I used to sing—
 And still the cackey curtains hung but from a thread of two, the sun and wind had played their parts so lightening
 the hue—
 But when the colors gone away and time has won the race, signs of life will still be there which time just can't deface.

Donna Tannenbaum To each his own

Ability is defined as the power to perform or accomplish. This is demonstrated by both physical and mental powers; acquired or natural. To accomplish these tasks one must set his mind to it. Everyone is an individual with his own interests. Each strives to improve his own skills to better himself. When this is accomplished one has brought his endeavors to a successful conclusion; reached by his own efforts.

Sometimes you feel so special
Yet nothing is said,
You are afraid of ridicule,
For not everyone can understand.
They laugh.

And sometimes you see what others cannot
You see beauty and cry.
With joy and happiness, later sadness,
For something lost, turned ugly
By ignorance.

The victim unsaved

My world is inside a dusty corner
where I drove it hopefully forever,
And my mind is in the calm, right place.

Life's compatible this way for sure,
No difference of opinion to endure
Pretending that I gather no dust

A sickly smile creases my lips
While I keep the coathanger poised

At times when mortal cares bind my soul to earthly matters,
I think of times before when life full flown
Did dance and prance like leaves blown by the wind,
And when my heart took wings and flew to thee
And spheres unheard, unseen, unsought—
With no money can times like these be

No moments purchased,
No happiness lent with interest.

Life's greatest happiness is measured by the friendships we make along the way.

Be sure of the foundation of your life. Know why you live as you do. Be ready to give a reason for it. Do not, in such a matter of life, build on opinion or custom, or what you guess is true. Make it a matter of certainty and science. Thomas Starr King

The best cosmetic in the world is an active mind that is always finding something new.

Seas of hallways, surrounding quiet classrooms.

preaching teachers with mysterious gazes.

Laughter flowing through special sayings.

The relationship between people is reflected in our midsts.

Education is living life to its fullest.

As I sit pondering all things past,
The thing most present on my mind
Is a life that now I leave at last.
One that has been stern, yet kind.

The life of frolic is now all over,
We all leave for different paths.
Memories of laughter and sweet clover
Have now been exchanged for feelings of wrath.

We have all experienced the calm before the storm

Within these halls we've led sheltered lives,

As children we felt snug and warm,
Hiding safe inside our own little hives.

Seas of memories flood around us

Beyond us lies a glorious day

No more sights of the school bus

Coming sleepily to spirit us away

When someone dies who is very close to you, whether in age or personal relation, you may begin to wonder what it means. A whole lifetime gone and you feel that lifetime had to have a purpose. Carolyn's life meant something important to everyone who knew her well.

She lived, loved, and shared her life with many people. She was real and a special person who had a special giving nature. She gave of herself when she listened to people with a true interest in what they were saying. When someone was happy and excited, she felt happy and excited for them; when someone was very upset, she cried with them; and when somebody she knew wasn't being treated fairly, she took their part wholeheartedly. She was a good friend who went out of her way to make someone happy and she had the power to forgive anybody no matter how they hurt her.

She loved living and she used her life to the fullest in everything she did. She had a great talent for many things and worked at living a productive life. She left many things to remember her by, especially a lesson. Life can end at any time, so don't waste time. Live life to the fullest. Use your time carefully and help someone else at it too.

Carrie was a beautiful person, a true friend and a great sister. We miss her.

Debby Bayes For Understanding

Dear Liz -
hi (again) Just want to make sure that you don't forget me - Love, Ava

I don't want to leave you the scenes of my childhood

my friends and neighbors

the house and streets

where I spent my life

It's like leaving a part of myself behind

While I walk away

and don't look back

But I take something from you where I go

And carry it to a new place,

new time,

and new people

Who will share it with me

Dear Liz -

We are coming home before but we have been really busy some times and the family have been just as busy as I did. I hope you are well and I hope that ever after the summer will be a happy one. You look like a great one.

Love
Ava

Dear Liz
although we haven't known each other for a long time, I'm glad we became friends. You're a really nice kid + I hope ~~we'll be~~ friends for a long time. Good luck in the future. Have a wonderful summer. As long as we're in cahoots with each, which I'm sure we'll always be, we'll ~~never~~ always be close to each other. I know you'll get every thing good in life that you deserve
And besides,
I'll make sure of it, with our cahoots. Love always, Ruth

Dear Liz,
Well, graduation is finally here. I can hardly believe it. I just want you to know that you were a great help to me when I had her accident. Remember all of our talks and telephone conversations! You're a very understanding person. Glad we became good friends. Let's always keep in touch. Good luck in everything you do.
Love
Marecia

Dear Liz,

I'm very glad we got to know one another this year. You're very sweet.

Hope that only the best of everything comes to you, now & always. Take care

Love, Cindy (mauro)

P.S. Have a wonderful summer. Stay as nice as you are! Always remember art class.

Dearest Liz,
I just remember how I did get your picture in here and all the pictures
I took. Just think it's so for 30 years never gotten together.
I hope you have a fantastic time in school and work hard, but not too hard. Be good and have a super summer.
Keep in touch.
Love you
Rosemary

Dear Liz,

Wow - I can't believe we are graduating. It really went fast. I glad I know you because you are a nice person. We had good times in Oral Interp.
even though it was boring at times. I hope you have a great time at college and I hope you keep in touch. You will always be a part of my high school memories. Success in the future.

Love always
- Helen -

Yes!
After living just around the corner for many years our friendship will be as strong as ever
the future though it isn't apparent
Thank you for sharing yourself with me for you are friendships
can only grow

Love
Liz

Liz

Although we're actually from each other 40 years ago we were my new acquaintances that finally we're the good friends.
I'm a wonderful, nice, kind person. I'm very glad to know you. Really hope we can exchange much. Good luck for the future.

Love Liz,

Dear Liz,

I'm really glad that we became friends this year. It's just too bad it's the end of the year. Well, I hope I'll still be seeing you. Have a nice summer. Good luck always,

Love
Gayle

Dear Liz,

I really haven't known ~~you~~ you for too long but just long enough to know your great! Stay that way!

Love
Michele

Dear Liz,

I really glad we became friends these last few years. You're really a nice kid and a good friend. Since we are both going to Syracuse, I'm sure we ~~will~~ will see a lot of each other. Maybe we will even run into each other this summer. Always keep in touch. Good luck in the years to come.

Dear Liz,
I really enjoyed your friendship, like all others it is something you will treasure. It's a very rewarding experience.
Love
Joyce

Liz,

Good luck in college Come back and see us when you're still stuck here next year

Love
Glenn

Dear Liz

You're a wonderful person.
I wish we would have met sooner.
I know we will be seeing each other in the future. I'll miss your smile and laughter. Good luck in the future.

Love,

Reed
